PROVA INGLESE – testo 1

Il candidato legga e traduca:

The weather is one of the few things we can't control but it is one of the most important things in our lives. The way we live and the things we do depend on the weather. The weather influences the clothes we wear, what we do – beach or indoor swimming pool – and even what we eat – hot soup or a nice salad.

When we are planning a journey, we need to know if there's snow and ice on the roads, or if there's thick fog.

And how many holidays are ruined by bad weather? There can be no doubt our lives are very strongly influenced by the weather.

PROVA INGLESE – testo 2

Il candidato legga e traduca:

The British in particular have a reputation for being obsessed with the weather but this isn't surprising when you consider how changeable the weather in Britain can be. A day can start with a sunny morning, then change into a wet afternoon and become cloudy and windy in the evening.

British people know that the weather is unpredictable and they prepare for that. In fact it's not unusual to see people having a picnic on the beach in boots and coats or people at summer festivals walking in the mud carrying umbrellas.

But when the sun shines, even if it is only early spring, the British put on their shorts, t-shirts and sandals, and they don't worry about getting ill!

PROVA INGLESE – testo 3

Il candidato legga e traduca:

That's because there isn't a very big difference between summer and winter temperatures in the UK. The temperature is generally mild all year and people want to enjoy the sun when they can. There's no need for long summer school holidays in August because of the heat.

British people don't usually have separate summer and winter clothes: they put on a jumper or jacket in the winter, take it off in the summer. They sleep with quilts on their beds all year around.

PROVA INGLESE – testo 4

Il candidato legga e traduca:

The British aren't prepared for extreme weather. A very hot summer means houses are uncomfortable because buildings in the UK keep people warm, not cool. They usually have thick carpets and curtains and no air-conditioning.

In the winter, heavy snow means people can't get to work or school because train and bus services aren't designed to operate in these freezing conditions and people can't drive because of the snow on the roads.

Climate change is beginning to have an impact on the British way of life and the national obsession with the weather is getting worse!

My job is a long distance from my home, almost 50 miles away. I have to wake up early every morning, as I'm always in a rush. There's never enough time for a relaxed breakfast. At 7:00 AM, I get into my car and start the long drive. The drive to work takes about one hour.

Going back home in the evening after work takes even longer, maybe around 70 minutes. Lately I've been thinking about trying to take the train to work instead of driving. That way I could still listen to my music with headphones and even read a novel at the same time.

The four seasons are spring, summer, fall, and winter, and although various areas of the United States experience drastically different weather during these times, all portions of the country recognize the seasons; winter in California may bring heat, and winter in New York may bring blizzards, but both periods are nevertheless winter.

Following winter, spring begins on 20 March and ends on either 20 June or 21 June, in the United States (this date may vary slightly from year to year and hemisphere to hemisphere).
